

Gallery sets sights on Art Fair

ROWAN Gallery is Helensburgh's first gallery to be accepted into the most established and prestigious Art Fair outwith London.

Glasgow Art Fair is the place to buy, sell and view art.

Scotland's National Art Fair will return to the trademark white pavilions in George Square at the heart of Glasgow's city centre for its 15th year, from Thursday 25 to Sunday March 28 2010.

Whether you are a serious collector, a casual buyer or just interested in contemporary art, this is the place to buy, sell and view art in Scotland.

With over 50 galleries and art organisations from throughout Scotland, the UK and overseas presenting contemporary work across all media from over 1000 artists, there is something to suit all tastes and budgets. Rowan Gallery will be exhibiting new paintings by Pam Carter, Laura Kearney, Ian Elliot, Elena Kourenkova, Philip Raskin, Dronma, Joyce Borland, Alexandra Steele, Maggie Downer and Fiona MacLeod.

They will be showcasing new work by the talented and acclaimed Gerard Burns.

Glasgow born, Burns was a principle of art at St Aloysius College Glasgow and currently stands as one of Scotland's most respected artists.

His growing client base varies from A-list celebrities to prominent members of business communities
